Central Intelligence Agency

STATINTL

Dear [REDACTED]

Your letter advising of your plans to leave CIA and enter the practice of law has recalled the many associations that we have had during your nine years with the Agency. These nine years have been a period during which CIA has developed from a new and untried organization faced with vast responsibilities to a mature Agency with many accomplishments to our credit. You may take just pride for the part you have played during this important transition period. Your conscientious work, together with your professional skill as a lawyer, has solved many of the problems with which we have been faced.

We regret your leaving the Agency, and I wish you the greatest success in your new role as attorney in the private practice of law.

Sincerely,

STATINTL
